CHIPPIE BAND BRINGING JOY TO BATTERED BUSINESSES

AN empty chip shop is a thing of great sadness so it's good to see indie treasures The Lathums, above, shot the video to their jangly new single Oh My Love in one during lockdown.

The Wigan wonders, who tour the UK in September, deliver joy as pure as deep-fried goodness after a big night out (remember those?).

Frontman Alex Moore said: "Tilly the dancer created choreography to match the lyrics and did a smashing job. It's like my subconscious dancing to me."

As bands get ready to play live again when full lockdown ends, guitar music is ready to rise up strong again.

Alex added: "This could be the time for a fresh start. My lyrics tend to sway into [saying] love each other, look after each other. We want to spread that for the rest of our lives."

Sounds good to us.

My lyrics say to love each other, we want to help to spread that
all of our lives

9. The Lathums release new single 'Oh My Love'

Teenage turbulence meets old-before-time wisdom in a waterfall of luminescent melody as whip smart indie treasures, The Lathums, release new single, Oh My Love. The first new music of the year from the BBC Sound Poll 2021 shortlisters arrives, snapping at the heels of their biggest ever live show announcements, in a cerebral, line-a-second, spring shower of iridescent, poetic pop that, like many of the best things in life, is over all too soon.

Incomparable and unassailable, the unassuming, poetic masters of jangle-ska-whatever-it's-called from the overlooked outskirts of Greater Manchester last week announced they would take to the stages of Manchester's O2 Victoria Warehouse, Glasgow Barrowland Ballroom and London's O2 Forum Kentish Town as part of an expanded and upgraded, 21-date headline UK Tour this autumn and winter. Oh My Love is the serotonin hit to prove just how they've got there.

Fizzing with the rare creative friction that sets off sparks of glowing inspiration, singer and songwriter, Alex Moore's profound lyrics, written in the long shadow of personal loss, are roused by the chiming tangle of multi-instrumentalist, Scott Concepcion's celestial guitar and piano lines. Written in and for the times when life's storm clouds gather, Oh My Love is one in a succession of songs that poured from bookish Moore's heart as a prodigious 16-year-old, finding sense in music when the world had failed to make any sense at all.

The Lathums – Oh My Love

Summer is coming... please, God, let summer be coming. When the days finally arrive for ice lollies and day seshes in the park, The Lathums have the perfect song to soundtrack the sun. Joyful and innocent, this encapsulates everything we look forward to come June.
